Powerlink Facilities Management Services Selected to Present to Potential Investors

Powerlink is one of six Detroit businesses chosen to participate in Inner City Capital Connections program sponsored by Bank of America.

November 16, 2009, Detroit, Mich. -- Initiative for a Competitive Inner City (ICIC) has selected Powerlink Facilities Management as one of six Detroit companies that will present their businesses to potential investors at a session in New York City November 18 & 19.

ICIC and Bank of America created the forum to help inner city companies tap into sources of capital, educate them on their financial options, and connect with potential investors. ICIC and Bank of America have already held five other similar sessions that helped companies raise a total of $140 million in capital from a pool of 115 equity providers.

“We are honored to be a part of this select group,” said Link Howard III, president and CEO of Powerlink. “We have grown steadily in 2009 and we look forward to describing our success to equity capital companies that might want to share in it.”

Across the country, a total of 50 companies will benefit this year from the Inner City Capital Connections programs. Companies must be headquartered in or have 51% or more of their physical operations in an economically distressed urban area of the US. They must also have had revenues of more than $2 million in 2008.
